Get it while still available I'll be a prelude to say, I'm not a bee, but her husband. I understand that the vast majority of publications for each product review tend to be negative: that you have a bad experience and you want to shout it from mountaintops - you feel that you already are. However, this is the first time I have felt so positive about a product, that I felt compelled to express my opinion. I've been a Remington customer/user since the mid-1970s. The original old Remington: The old brick, was one of the best electric razor machines I've ever used. For nearly 40 years, I had four different Remingtons, one being a large triangle cutter (MS3-2700 - about 15 years ago) and 3 two cutters, the latter being MS2-390. To be fair, I also purchased and tried for a month or more, and eventually passed away, Noralco and Ponsonique. I feel like I gave them fair sentences. They did a bad job, took forever, and didn't get very close. I feel that the negative reviews for the Remington F5790 are more attributed to inexperience and new users of electric razors. It takes a while to get used to your beard for electric razors, and your face should be clean, dry and use a talcum product like the Remington powder stick, which I use. But - my first week of use of the Remington F5790: it was the closest and fastest shave I've ever had with any electric razor, including the previous Remington; And faster than using Gillette Mach-5 cream and shaving. I'd almost say, it's almost as close as shaving with Mach-5. The F5790 is well balanced and has a comfortable grip. The first time I used the F5790, I was amazed at the first way I came across my cheek. It's been a day and a half growth (I've got pretty heavy growth). I'd swear I ran the Mmach-5 on my cheek. Shaving was so close and fast, there was no burn/razor irritation (normal for new users or improper use of electric razors). Even my old/last MS2-390 (discontinued, $70, 2-cutter), will let me burn/irritation a several times a week. Cons: Only disadvantages will the screen protector is unchecked for front/back and takes a few tries to get broken back instead (I know it will be easier the more I get used to it); And removing the top of the screen to clean my cutters is not the easiest experience. Remington! You need to provide a travel case! Fortunately, this unit fits in the old zipper bag that came with my latest MS2-390. I can't attest to the durability of the product, but at a cost of $43 (regular $55) and the fact that I believe that the F5790 is no longer manufactured, I purchase the second F5790 to keep up when this one will dissipate and/or for travel.
